Preface

Price represents the monetary value of a commodity or service at a specific time and location. In the context of agriculture, price is a critical economic indicator that influences production, marketing, and consumption decisions. Accurate and timely price data serves as a vital input for policy formulation, and plays a key role in administrative and executive decision-making.

The Department of Economics and Statistics continues to function as the central agency for the systematic collection, compilation, and dissemination of price statistics within the state. The department captures a wide range of prices including Farm Wholesale and Retail prices, Market Wholesale prices of various commodities, Retail prices of essential items, Coir and Husk, Coconut Shell, Tea, Waste Paper, Salt, and many more. Additionally, the department collects data to support the computation of important indices such as the Parity Index, Price Index, Consumer Price Index, and Wholesale Price Index, which are formulated by the Price Division.

The Department of Economics and Statistics in Kerala, publishes comprehensive price statistics annually. This report “Price Statistics 2022” is prepared by the collaborative efforts of the officers working in the Price Division of this Directorate. I am grateful to Mr. G. S. Rajath, Additional Director, for his support, insight and guidance, which significantly enhanced the quality of this work. I also appreciate the dedication and efforts taken by Mr. Rajendran Nair S., Assistant Director, in preparing this report.

Suggestions for improvement of this report are most welcome.

INTRODUCTION

In 2022, the Department of Economics and Statistics (DES) continued its mandate of systematically collecting, validating, and analysing price data from across the State. This comprehensive monitoring system covers Farm Prices, Wholesale Prices, Retail Prices, and Wage Rates—key inputs for assessing price behaviour, market trends, and inflation. These datasets form the basis for compiling major indicators such as the Consumer Price Index (CPI), Wholesale Price Index (WPI), Parity Index, and Wage Index. Through these indicators, DES provides a clear picture of evolving economic conditions and supports evidence-based policy decisions.

Once scrutinised and consolidated, the processed data are disseminated to Central and State Government agencies, including the Coconut Development Board, State Agricultural Prices Board, Reserve Bank of India, Supplyco, All India Radio, Civil Supplies and Consumer Affairs Department, and various research institutions and commodity boards. These stakeholders rely on DES data for macroeconomic analysis, price stabilisation, market intervention, and welfare-oriented policy formulation.

The Prices Division of DES, under the supervision of the Additional Director (Prices), manages methodological standards, quality assurance, and data flow from field offices. In 2022, the Division prioritised improving data timeliness, strengthening digital reporting platforms, and widening the coverage of essential commodities in the retail and wholesale sectors.

In a year marked by volatile market conditions—driven by global supply disruptions, climatic variations, and shifts in domestic demand—price statistics remained indispensable. Continuous monitoring and timely dissemination of price information enhanced transparency, enabled trend forecasting, and supported responsive policy measures. This report presents a detailed review of 2022 price movements across major commodity groups and highlights underlying trends, seasonal patterns, and market dynamics.

FARM PRICES – 2022

I. Farm Wholesale Prices

Since 1954, DES has collected Farm Wholesale Prices for key agricultural commodities from all revenue taluks. In 2022, fortnightly data were collected for 81 commodities across all 77 taluks. These prices reflect the average revenue farmers receive during bulk sales at the farm level or village markets and include special cases such as tree crops sold in-standing. The 2022 dataset provided clear insights into farmgate price volatility influenced by weather variability, transport challenges, and rising input costs.

II. Farm Retail Prices

Farm Retail Prices—representing earnings from small-scale or direct-to-consumer sales—were collected for 63 commodities on the last working day of each month. These prices offered a measure of farmers’ retail-level income, particularly relevant amid rising input expenses, seasonal shortages, and evolving consumer preferences.

MARKET WHOLESALE PRICES – 2022

Wholesale prices collected under the Market Intelligence Scheme represent the modal rate of large-volume transactions at major markets. These prices, reflecting the most common trading values during peak hours, serve as reliable indicators of prevailing wholesale market conditions.

RETAIL PRICES – 2022

Retail prices—what consumers pay for smaller quantities of essential goods—were closely monitored throughout the year. DES collected multiple categories of retail price data:

1. Weekly and monthly prices used for constructing CPI (IW & AL).
2. Additional “Appendix” prices from district headquarters.
3. Daily prices of 50 + 28 essential items, submitted to the Chief Minister’s Office.
4. Weekly prices of 20 + 9 selected essentials.
5. Weekly wholesale and retail prices of fruits.
6. Retail prices of 18 forests produce items.
7. Retail prices of Ayurveda raw materials.
8. Quarterly prices of dietary articles.
9. Market rates for waste paper, coir, spices, salt, cocoa, and coconut by-products.

Retail Prices of Essential Commodities – 2022

Consumer-level prices in 2022 fluctuated significantly due to global inflation, varying transport costs, and irregular monsoon patterns. Continuous daily monitoring allowed timely detection and analysis of price changes, supporting prompt policy responses aimed at consumer protection and farmer welfare.

OTHER PRICE COLLECTION ACTIVITIES – 2022

- Waste Paper & Scrap Items: Monthly prices collected from district headquarters to guide disposal rate fixation.
- Coir: Weekly wholesale prices for major coir varieties from key production centres.

- Coconut Husk: Weekly monitoring of raw and rotted husk prices to support the coir fibre industry.
- Spices: Weekly prices for Nutmeg, Mace, Cinnamon, Cloves, Pepper, and Vanilla from primary spice-growing districts (Kottayam, Idukki, Wayanad, Thrissur).
- Salt: Weekly price and stock data from three major centres and monthly data from all districts.
- Cocoa: Weekly prices of dry cocoa from eight major producing centres, providing insights into plantation crop conditions.

PRICE INDEX NUMBERS – 2022

Index numbers remained critical tools for assessing changes in economic variables. DES compiled the following:

1. Consumer Price Index (CPI) for IW & AL (Base: 2011–12 = 100)
2. Wholesale Price Index (WPI) for agricultural commodities (Base: 2015–16 = 100)
3. Parity Index (Base: 2019–20 = 100)
4. Wage Index (Base: 2019–20 = 100)
5. CPI (Rural/Urban/Combined) (Base: 2018 = 100)

Consumer Price Index – 2022

CPI measures changes in the cost of a fixed basket of goods consumed by agricultural labourers and industrial workers. Retail price data from all designated centres supported the compilation of monthly inflation trends and consumption patterns. The CPI played a vital role in wage determination, policy decisions, and compensation revisions.

Wage Index – 2022

Daily wages for major agricultural labour categories were monitored across 28 centres. Wage indices were prepared for:

- Skilled labour (Carpenters, Masons)
- Paddy field labour (Bund workers – men; Transplanters – women)
- Other agricultural operations (Rubber tapping, Coconut and Arecanut plucking, Head load work)

Wage trends in 2022 reflected seasonal demand, rising living costs, and ongoing post-pandemic labour market adjustments.

Parity Index – 2022

The Parity Index measures the ratio of prices farmers receive to the prices they pay. In 2022, the index showed the impact of higher cultivation expenses—particularly fertiliser, fuel, and labour—on farm profitability.

Wholesale Price Index – 2022

Using wholesale prices collected through the Market Intelligence Scheme, DES compiled WPI for 24 major agricultural commodities. Group-wise and commodity-specific analyses highlighted supply-demand dynamics, seasonal effects, and market pressures throughout 2022.

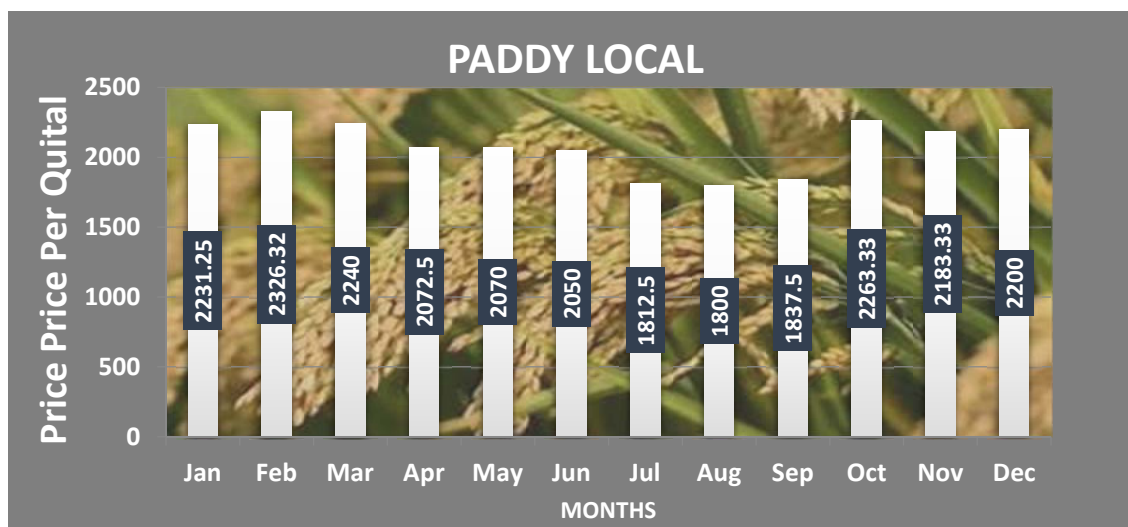

Data Analysis - Major Crops - Farm Wholesale Price

The monthly state average prices of major and minor agricultural crops were analysed using EARAS records for the year 2022. This assessment highlights the overall price behaviour and seasonal movements observed during the year. Key patterns, fluctuations, and notable shifts in price levels have been identified based on the monthly averages. Supporting charts, tables, and concise summaries accompany the analysis to illustrate the major findings. The report exclusively relies on state average price figures and traces the progression of prices from January to December 2022. Detailed item-wise trends and comparative insights are presented in the subsequent sections to provide a comprehensive view of crop price dynamics during the year
